INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

The global equity market ground decisively higher in February. The question of inflation and potential interest rate cuts by central bankers remains top of mind in the investment community, but the answer remains elusive. In fact, the most recent data indicates there is no rush to cut rates and the timetable appears to have been pushed further into the future.

SKAGEN Global underperformed its benchmark index MSCI AC World in February.

The fund's top return contributor was Waste Management. The American waste management giant delivered a solid quarterly report showing meaningful price hikes to offset higher inflation and expand margins. Waste Management operates 254 active solid waste landfills, a highly underappreciated competitive advantage that positions the company well for the future.

The fund's worst return contributor was the Danish freight-forwarder DSV. The company has hit a soft patch over the past 18 months with a CEO transition, falling freight rates after the pandemic super cycle and uncertainty surrounding the growth path going forward. While all these market concerns have some validity, we firmly believe that sound bottom-up execution from the management team under new CEO Jens Lund will let the numbers speak for themselves.

Comments on portfolio trading activity, if any, will follow in the fund's quarterly report. For now, we note that the market is off to an unusually strong start to the year, and we would not be surprised to see some moderation in the coming periods. Our focus remains on the fundamental execution of our companies and if they can deliver according to our investment hypotheses, there is meaningful further upside to be had over time. However, we remain disciplined on valuation to ensure the portfolio reflects an attractive risk-reward for long-term investors.

Historical returns are no guarantee for future returns. Future returns will depend, inter alia, on market developments, the fund manager's skill, the fund's risk profile and management fees. The return may become negative as a result of negative price developments. There is a risk associated with investing in the fund due to market movements, currency developments, interest rate levels, economic, sector and company-specific conditions.

RISK PROFILE

We have classified this product as 5 out of 7, which is a medium-high risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-high level. Other risks not included in the summary risk indicator but materially relevant: Event risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, counterparty risk, derivatives risk. Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.
