INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

Despite a tough start to the month when equity markets endured major volatility, global equities recouped losses and finished on a strong note. Markets were buoyed by the prospect of US rate cuts, cooling inflation and stable labour markets. Europe and the US led regional performance while emerging markets lagged, weighed down by Korea and Mexico. Brazil benefited from the rising price of key exports, though fiscal concerns persisted which has led to a weak market in 2024.

Top performers in the portfolio included Ping-An, Hyundai Motor, and WH Group. Ping-An excelled as their 1H results showed signs of a turnaround. This will hopefully divert focus from concerns around their Chinese property sector exposure which has overshadowed the company's improved liability profile and the progress made in building their ecosystem. Hyundai Motor was strong on increasing shareholder returns, and they spoke enthusiastically about the potential of gaining market share in future thanks to their strong hybrid and EV platform line-ups. WH Group delivered an impressive earnings beat as margins expanded on lower input costs and pricing tailwinds.

Detractors for the month were Cosmax, Coca-Cola Icecek, and Samsung Electronics. Cosmax faced weaker demand from China and rising costs. Coca-Cola Icecek cut 2024 guidance due to weakness in some of their international markets. Samsung Electronics gave away some recent gains despite strong quarterly earnings. We exited our position in the global mattress and furniture company Zinus due to a challenging market environment.

SKAGEN Kon-Tiki strives to find high-quality companies with low valuations, and the portfolio should be relatively resilient over time under various macro scenarios. Trading at a 2024e P/E of 7.4x compared to the MSCI EM Index at 13x, the fund continues to provide a very attractive risk-reward proposition.
